Conor's Future

Lesley and her husband live in a suburb outside Perth. Their youngest son, 21 year old Conor, was born with Duchenne muscular dystrophy, a degenerative condition that means his muscles break down and cannot repair themselves.

Over time Conor has lost the ability to walk and feed himself - eventually almost every bodily function will be affected.

What Lesley wants is for Conor to have the equipment and support that he needs. She wants to be a mother to her son, instead of his daily carer.

Conor wants a chance at a future where he can be as independent as possible, finish his degree and have his own life.

Their story isn't unique, but it's one of many that need to be told. We all know people whose lives have been affected because we don't have an NDIS.

Why do we need an NDIS?

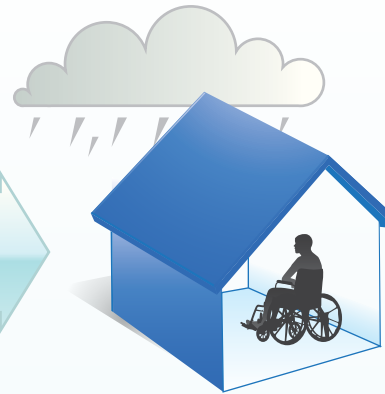

Disability can affect anyone, anytime

If you have a disability

things are tough

SYSTEM BROKEN

- Insufficient funds
- Support is a lottery
- Frustration
- Unable to plan
- Uncertainty
- Anxiety
- Lost opportunities

What about an NDIS?

We are letting down Australians with disabilities

A National Disability Insurance Scheme

Like Medicare, a system that makes sure...

...each person gets what they need when they need it.

If eligible for the NDIS:

It's a single system providing support, therapy, equipment, early intervention and training.

Enough support to lead an ordinary life...

...at home, at work in the community.

Our goal

Make sure the NDIS happens
